Description

I tried to debug this but I ran out of time. Running the functional tests for teh AccountController is intermitently producing test failures. I tracked it down to Setting.openid? not returning true even if it's set to true by a test. The test database might need to be purged to reproduce.

This was caught by my CI server at r2472.

RAILS_ENV=test rake db:test:purge && RAILS_ENV=test rake db:migrate && ruby test/functional/account_controller_test.rb

It should be fixed by r2481.

#2 - 2009-02-20 00:54 - Eric Davis

Looks like that fixed it, CruiseControl and my local system are both reporting all green now. I must have missed Setting#openid? being defined directly, I thought it was using the dynamic class_eval.
