Description

Hi,

I have been using redmine since last 2 years. Redmine solves a lot of problems in a very organized manner so I thought contribution to this community would be a value addition for me.

The term 'notes' in the edit section does provide me a beautiful functionality of entering my queries related to development. But somehow this term does not signify what the user wants to highlight.
The term 'notes' is being used where the user wants to highlight any specific point but since the functionality also serves us with a feedback loop for the 'Author' a change in the term is necessary. Will it be right to use 'Feedback' or 'Feeds' as the term instead of 'notes'.
Also if I was a beta tester this point would definitely be highlighted. There is a possibility I may be wrong. The issue is debatable. Suggestions are appreciated.
