I could not reproduce the problem with Redmine 3.4.5.

Do you use plugins? This issue may be caused by some plugins. Please try again after uninstalling all plugins.

Indeed, I have a few plugins. One is 'Redmine Auto Watch', seems a good candidate to turn off, I'll have a try.

OKayyy, that's definitively 'Redmine Auto Watch'. I could not reproduce the problem once this plugin was turned off.

Thanks a lot for the quick triaging, and sorry for the false report. I'll check with the plugin code and author.

Thank you for sharing the information. I am happy to know that the plain Redmine has no problem and your Redmine instance is now working fine.
