Description

Allow the user to set the issue status when raising an issue. The dropdown should default to the "default status" but allow the user choice.

The reason being that if I raise an issue and know who to assign it to immediately then I may not want to have to raise a "New" issue then go back in and change the status to "Assigned" (Which displays on the issue history as well).

Done.
Only statuses for which the user have a "default status"
-> "status" workflow transition permission are proposed.
eg if if user is not authorized to do New -> Closed, Closed won't be proposed.
