Description When the migration to Rails 5.2 was made, the "Unobtrusive JavaScript" was reverted to jquery-rails instead of vanilla js (#26518 for more details). Because we cannot stick for ever with the old jquery-rails library, I've updated the ui-rails to the latest version and fixed in the proper way #26518 . I propose to commit this patch as soon as possible in order to have enough time to find another possible issues (I've tested roughly other screens that are using the remote feature and I didn't find other problems).

It is normal, I've attached an incomplete patch, sorry for that.

Please try the new one, it is zip because the patch size is greater than 600.
