Description

redmine is a really flexible project manage software,but the spent time module is not ideal to me.I have several problem about this module:

1. when I use the time log in the software.all the issue related members's work time are added.I think the time log should be appointed with a person.When I log time I can choose which person's work time to log.A role's time log should have a privilege that can log other group members's work time not only for himself.
2. the spent time moudle appointed problem's way is not good.there should be a more convenient way to choose problem and person.

The feature has been added in Redmine 4.1 (#3848).

Please open a separate issue and describe more detail.
