Description
Have a mechanism to allow for setting user "out of office" status, where sending updates or assigning an issue to that user will either: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• give immediate on-page feedback of the user's "out of office" status and/or</li><li>• a subsequent out of office email notification is received.</li></ul> Ideally, this would be able to integrate with something like Outlook's calendar.

We could really need this feature, too, including auto-reply detector.
