Description

Have a mechanism to allow for setting user "out of office" status, where sending updates or assigning an issue to that user will either:

- give immediate on-page feedback of the user's "out of office" status and/or
- a subsequent out of office email notification is received.

Ideally, this would be able to integrate with something like Outlook's calendar.