1. open timesheet/index
2. choose "From" instead of "Period". Btw it could some default period instead of a 'mm/dd/yyyy'

Timesheet

The screenshot shows the 'Timesheet' form. On the left, there is a 'Period' dropdown menu set to 'all time'. To its right, there is a 'From' radio button selected, followed by a date input field containing 'mm/dd/yyyy'. Below this is a 'To' radio button and another date input field containing 'mm/dd/yyyy'. To the right of these fields is a 'Group by' dropdown menu set to 'Project'. A red rectangular box highlights the 'From' and 'To' date input fields.

3. select a date
4. select a user
5. click "Search"
6. it shows the result
7. have a look at "From". it shows again 'mm/dd/yyyy'. The period selected in step 3 should be kept.

it is really annoying

cos every time you change the user you have to specify the period again and again and if you have forgotten to specify the period - it selects the whole data from the history and it is very slow because we have a lot of history data.

- Status changed from Needs feedback to Closed

- Resolution set to Invalid

Probably the page "Timesheet" is provided by a third-party plugin. Plain Redmine does not have a page with such name.

Please contact the author of the plugin.
