Thanks :-)
I'll share more feedback after I test it if I'll find more bugs

Update: this seems to be working with no problems so far, if somebody else could double check it for security sake, it would be a really cool fix to commit ;-)

- Target version set to Candidate for next major release

#6 - 2019-12-23 09:44 - Mizuki ISHIKAWA

- File 0002-Add-test.patch added

If you need tests to commit 32153-workaround.patch, add tests based on the attached patch.

- 0002-Add-test.patch is a patch that should be applied after 32153-workaround.patch is applied
- 0002-Add-test.patch adds a .mp4 file to the test subversion_repository.
  - rake test:scm:update command must be executed after applying the patch for the test to succeed

#7 - 2020-01-04 04:21 - Go MAEDA

- Target version changed from Candidate for next major release to 4.1.1

This is my redmine environment information. I saw that the official website redmine4.0 began to support online preview videos.
When I was browsing the uploaded video online, the following error message occurred. (Video in mp4 format, h264 encoding)

When I open debugging, the following error message is displayed, is there a problem with my service configuration? Still video encoding format does not support online browsing. Thank you very much for your answer
