I think the default assignee should be in the API response as well.

The following JSON response is enough (keys default_version and default_assignee)?

```
  "project": {
    "id": 1,
    "name": "eCookbook",
    "identifier": "ecookbook",
    "description": "Recipes management application",
    "homepage": "http://ecookbook.somenet.foo/",
    "status": 1,
    "is_public": true,
    "inherit_members": false,
    "default_version": {
      "id": 3,
```

```
    "name": "2.0"
  "default_assignee": {
    "id": 3,
    "name": "Dave Lopper"
  "custom_fields": [
    {
      "id": 3,
      "name": "Development status",
      "value": "Stable"
    }
  ],
  "created_on": "2006-07-19T17:13:59Z",
  "updated_on": "2020-03-10T21:23:11Z"
}
```

That would be perfect for my use case

Here is the patch, I think we can deliver this fix in a minor release. If not, please move it to 4.2.0.

Test results here.

I agree. The two attributes should have been added in Redmine 3.2 or 3.4. And adding attributes does not break existing API clients if those are properly implemented.

- Status changed from Confirmed to Closed

Committed the patch. Thank you.
