Description

When editing user details via the admin panel, why not link "User : jdoe" back to the list of all users?   Or put in a breadcrumb to get back there?

When I'm setting up users and assigning access to projects, the current navigation scheme created 4 extra clicks for each user I need to modify.   There is no simple way to get back to the "list of all users" from the "edit this user" screen.

Simply linking the "User" part of the heading to go back to "list all users" would do the trick.

- Priority changed from Low to Normal

I'm going to redefine this feature request to have breadcrumbs for the Administration panel. Whenever I'm working in there, I waste a lot of time navigating up a page.

Breadcrumbs added in r2810. Let me know what you think.

- Status changed from Resolved to Closed

- Resolution set to Fixed

Closing as it seems ok for everyone (or at least no one seems to have complained up until now ;-)).
