Description
Hi, I don't know is this is a bug or I am using it wrong. But anyhow - it is a user-frendy feature. It doesn't matter what version have we - but I have tested and proved this scenario in demo.redmine.org (a few seconds ago). 1. (in demo.redmine.org) i created new project and inside the project a new issue. 2. Adding watchers: - If you put a tick before any user > this tick will be removed if you type anything in the user search bar. The same is happening when adding users to groups. Expected behavior: If you put a tick before a username, it should stay selected until you confirm or close the "popup window". It should clear any selections when yu search for a different user.
