

Redmine - Patch #34426

Issue Categories sortable

2020-12-09 14:32 - Karel Pičman

Status:	New	Start date:
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:	Issues	Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:	Candidate for next major release
Description
Adding a possibility to reorder issue categories.

History

#1 - 2021-02-02 12:21 - Mischa The Evil

- Target version set to Candidate for next major release

This is something that could be nice to have in particular use-cases, though I'm not sure if it is worth the overhead. Most of the time users expect issue category lists to be sorted alphabetically, I think.

In case this turns out to be a wanted feature I'd suggest to also add some quick-link of some sort for convenience to restore the items into an alphabetically sorted order.

#2 - 2021-02-08 14:59 - Karel Pičman

- File `issue_categories_sortable.diff` added

I think that a sorting command doesn't make much sense. However for sure it makes sense to keep the alphabetical order during the migration. I've updated the patch accordingly.

#3 - 2022-01-04 10:30 - Julien Dubois

+1 for the feature, it would be super convenient when you want to prioritize the work by theme within the same priority level.

Thank you!

Files

issue_categories_sortable.diff	6.84 KB	2020-12-09	Karel Pičman
issue_categories_sortable.diff	6.85 KB	2021-02-08	Karel Pičman