Could you explain the reason why you changed the translation for "issue" from "Assumpte" to "Incidè"?

#4 - 2023-06-12 10:56 - Joan J

Sure, in fact before changing it I asked to some community members from softcatalà (a volunteer platform that coordinates the catalan translation for a lot of projects), there are some reasons:

- There are three different words with similar meaning:
 - Assumpte is quite similar to the english 'Topic', it's not a wrong word but it feels unnatural when using it for an issue in the context of a software bug for example
 - Problema is the translation of Problem, in some cases it would be a good match, but it has the negative meaning, so it doesn't sound good on features of general requests that aren't bugs
 - Incidència is a bit in the middle, it means something that needs attention without the negative connotation of Problema
 - Tiquet is used on some projects as a direct translation for ticket (for example trac), but since the original in redmine is issue I've discarded it.
- In other projects as redmine they are using the equivalence issue == incidència (mantis bug tracker, moodle, and others) there are a lot here
- There's a translation memory of projects using the word issue here (some results are not valid because they are using issue as in press)
