Description
It would be useful to have a per user signature that could optionally be applied to outgoing email notifications for changes made by that user.

I totally agree; this would be a great benefit and would help consider using Redmine as a default support-ticketing system as well.

Sometimes there could be more than one person responding to 'Customer queries'. However, it might be a better idea to customize signature 'per project' rather than 'per user'.

I most of the time exit with my name. Would be nice if I could get the signature automatically. I use Redmine as a support helpdesk. To give it a more personal touch a personal signature makes a lot of sense.

In addition to the project signature, I can also imagine that the user-group has its own signature.

The idea of a project-signature is not bad either, even in our situation. So implementing all might improve Redmine.

I pledge for global, project and user settings for signatures at issue-update forms; Override the setting by a dropdown field (project- personal- group-signature)

Hello everybody,

I just made my first redmine plugin, it allow user to configure on his "my account" a signature that will be included on comments you write.

https://github.com/MYchaieb/user_signature_redmine

it's my first redmine plugin and first ruby code so any optimisation are welcome kind regards.
