Description

The recent release (0.5.1) introduced the ability to relate issues to each other. Thats a wonderful feature that is sorely needed IMHO. It is limiting in some aspects though. It would be great to be able to relate issues across projects.

Our products are structured in a way that they integrate feature sets between the products and this enhancement would be great.

Redmine is great! Thank you for buidling this application. :)

This enhancement was committed in rev 620, and will be available in the next release.

In Admin -> Settings, there is a new option called 'Allow cross-project issue relations'. Once checked, you can relate issues from different projects.
