There is something else to fix.

If a project doesn't have the repository module enabled, its issues won't show associated revisions.

Even when you enable the module, the link in "associated revisions" point to the issue's project repository, instead of the changeset

Second version of the patch: Show related revisions in issue

We have the same problem. Will try your patch.

This already was worked on

Patch in #3376 -- fixes link on issue to point to revision on proper repository (as opposed to local project repository), now code in trunk
Patch in #3087 -- Allows a revision comment to reference a project (see comments about variations -> linking to sub projects or parent projects, or sibling projects, or all projects)

Kind regards

I just want to clarify myself, I don't mean that these exact points were worked-on and resolved before, but rather to point to additional sources of inspiration. Kudos on this patch.

Kind regards

Closing this as a dup of #3087.
