Description

Right now the order you make the priority enumeration in is the order they exist. If I want to add a new priority somewhere in the middle I have to add it to the end and then rename all of the priorities and move all the issues, without batch edits!

So it really needs to have a way of inserting and reordering the priorities, as well as specifying a default priority.

History

#1 - 2007-10-04 13:17 - Jean-Philippe Lang

Read r800 and r801.

#2 - 2007-10-04 13:17 - Jean-Philippe Lang

Reording is committed in r781 and r782.

Okay, it looks to be in r801, but I can't get r801 to work on a fresh install.
Generic "can't start rails application" error with nothing in the logs...

> it looks to be in r801

It is.

> Generic "can't start rails application" error

What do you mean ? I have never seen this error message.

#5 - 2007-10-05 13:45 - Jean-Philippe Lang

Default priority done in r803.
