Description

Ironically, r3521 broke functional test for me.

1) Failure:
test_context_menu_multiple_issues_of_same_project(IssuesControllerTest) [/test/functional/issues_controller_test.rb:1173]:
expected tag, but no tag found matching {:attributes=>{:class=>"", :href=>"/issues/bulk_edit?ids%5B%5D=1&ids%5B%5D=2&priority_id=8"}, :tag=>"a", :content=>"Immediate"} in:
<much html code>

2) Failure:
test_context_menu_one_issue(IssuesControllerTest) [/test/functional/issues_controller_test.rb:1128]:
expected tag, but no tag found matching {:attributes=>{:class=>"", :href=>"/issues/bulk_edit?ids%5B%5D=1&priority_id=8"}, :tag=>"a", :content=>"Immediate"} in:
<much html code>

As a side note: do you have automated testing server? If you don't, I may try to assist.

#2 - 2010-03-02 11:46 - Jean-Philippe Lang

I saw this after it was committed and I just didn't have time to fix it. Nothing is broken, except the test itself.

As a side note: do you have automated testing server? If you don't, I may try to assist.

I use Hudson for that. It runs tests on different targets (trunk with mysql, pgsql, sqlite and 0.9-stable). Thanks anyway.

May you integrate your own Simple CI plugin with redmine.org so everyone will see current tests status?

#4 - 2010-03-03 21:02 - Jean-Philippe Lang

- Status changed from New to Closed

- Resolution set to Fixed

Fixed in r3522.

My Hudson server is not reachable from my web server. So, not for me but maybe in the future.

#5 - 2010-03-04 06:36 - Eric Davis

I had a public CI server setup for Redmine but it's not online any more. I have Redmine registered at RunCodeRun but they are not responding to my support requests to install the missing gems.
