Description
I'm author of a wiki page and added it to my favourites. But I don't get notification about new comments on it.
Other participants of discussion also don't get notification about new comments.

What are comments to a wiki page? Do you mean when the page gets edited?

#2 - 2010-04-13 08:19 - Henrik Ammer

Could it be the comments that the Wiki Extension plugin adds? Because if so, it should go either be added as a ticket here or in the forum post regarding the plugin.

We are using Redmine 0.9.4, but its wiki doesn't send any mail notifications. I'm not sure if there is such notifications support.

We want to get mails about any modifications of wiki pages in projects where we participate. Now, you have to go to wiki and look at "recently changed" list each time. If there are many projects, it is big headache! :(

You need to activate the boxes for wiki-page added and wiki-page changed in the Email settings of the global settings.

- Status changed from New to Resolved

Sorry, it was my fault. This issue is really about Wiki Extension plugin, not about the core system. So I assign a Resolved status to it.

This setting has only been added in 0.9.0 it seems.

Closing the issue as the original request seems to be worked out.
