Description
Hi,

When creating an issue, there is the possibility to link it to other ones.
This is a very interesting feature but one point which is annoying about that is the fact that you have to type the issue number by hand and when you have dozens of them, it is quite difficult to remember each one by its number so you have to open a new window to get the number you need.
This is not very practical, a drop down list would be easier.

Thanks

Displaying a drop-down list of all tickets is not really an option when you hundreds of tickets.
Please reopen this ticket if you see another to way to do it.
