The subtask feature has been working as expected. When I remove a parent from a child, that change is captured in the child's history, but it does not appear in the parent's history. I think it would be really handy to be able to see from the parent's perspective, how many child issues came and went. Seeing history like this viewing from the child up to the parent is a tad cumbersome. Hopefully, that makes sense.

Bravo Zulu on Redmine.

Display the addition / deletion of subtask issues in the parent issue's history block.
I attached a patch.

Setting the target version to 4.1.0.
