| When a user submits Issues via Mail and get automatically an Email with his Account data, he could Login to Redmine but does not see any of his created Tickets - the user does not belong to a Project. Maybe it should be possible at account creation that the user gets automatically Member of the Project and the Reporter Role. |                    |                          |            |
