Description

It used to work since recently... I have my redmine up-to-date as r4066 (today) and for a few days I have realized it was no longer working.

Here is a portion of my production.log in debug level:

I am not sure where to look for a solution, or even if a plugin might disrupt the funcion,but I can help try to locate the root cause, test, try out patches and past log files along

Well, Since r4082 it started working for the roadmap again (#6351), but still not working in the issues list.

I have also realized I have been getting a i18n related error, since my last sudo gem update (which intalled rails 3.0.0 with many active stuff version 3.0.0 and i18n with them)...

I am pretty sure this got to be the root cause, so I have removed them. Any advises?

Well, by the way, uninstalling those newer versions also did not solve my issues...still getting error 500 on context_menu in the issues page, and still working on the roadmap page.

#5 - 2010-09-19 18:19 - Mischa The Evil

- Status changed from New to Closed

- Resolution set to Invalid

Your error is caused by the XLS export plugin (aka Issues XLS export plugin) which overrides Redmines issues-index core view (which itself changed due to recent refactorings on the context_menu by Eric Davis). I'd advise to remove the plugin to see if it actually solves your issue...

If so: please report the issue to the plugin author and ask him to update the overridden Redmine core view(s).

Note: a similar issue was hunting the Show Issue Descriptions plugin which I've fixed myself. See RE: Show Issue Descriptions plugin.

Indeed, removing the XLS Export Plugin solved my problem... I remember they had worked together in the past, but then this recent change in the core cripled the plugin, right?

I'll try to contact the author and issue a ticket for the plugin repair as well.

Thanx

Well, I have contacted the plugin author and a fix was just released in the newer version 007... Now it wont cause the error 500 in the Issues Context_menu. I believe it solved the problem for now.

Thanx for all the help.
