Description

Can we update template names to rails 2.x conventions (rhtml -> html.erb) ? Or at least clean the render :template with filenames hardcoded in controllers which can make a plugin developer not understanding why his view his not overriding the core's one ?

Any thought/pros/cons about that ?

I think Toshi is taking care of that one these days, thanks. Toshi: I'll let you update this issue accordingly. I set the "% Done" to 50% since there was 226 templates with ".rhtml" convention in Redmine 1.2.0 and now 109 in current trunk. Keep up the good work!
