Description

It would be great if there where a view for issue categories similiar to the view of Milestones. This would help to get an overview of the work that has to be done in a special category. It aims in the same direction as #6678
The point is that the possibilities for users with less experiance with redmine, to get an overview about tasks is a bit difficult

I think that should be trivial to create an would improve the usability very much. May anybody do something about this please
