Such is implemented as part of #6276 which will be part of Redmine 1.1.0.

The first solution is fine as long as you didn't close the ticket. After closing it you wont be able to see if you were within the scheduled time frame. So for our purpose we always need to see when a ticket was closed if it was out of schedule. A small tag would be perfect.

I'm agree with you we need a date closed and see it in a the graph gantt. It's very important for management plan
