Description

Hello,

I think, it is good idea to write group names with different style (par example bold) in project settings, members tab. A list with check boxes and project member names stay at the right side. At the bottom of the list appear group names. Why not group names to be visually distinguished from member names?

One more idea.

It would be nice if when mouse stays over a group name (hover) group member names appear in a baloon window ...
