Description

I have a version within a project and 2 child projects (the version is shared with all). In each of the 2 child projects I can create issues and assign the Target version of the parent. When I view the Roadmap from within either child project, I see all of the issues regardless of project. (ie. I get the same display as if I were looking from the parent).

I would like to be able to get a breakdown of issues "by project" and/or be able to filter out issues which are not for the current project I'm in.
