Redmine - Feature #7105

Popup menu for the Projects link

2010-12-13 22:39 - Emmanuel Bourgerie

Status:	New	Start date:	2010-12-13
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:		Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:
Resolution:

Description

Hi !

I'm an occasional Jira user, and there is a little feature that I really appreciate. Here are the details :

Imagine a little arrow just near the Projects link (on the very top). Clicking this arrow would load the projects list in a list (AJAX is my friend), then I could jump to a project quickly instead of having to load the entire page.

Having this would be a great pleasure. I know it's a detail, but such details make life easier isn't ? ;)

So, if your holidays are boring, here is a little plus that would make it awesome :

- Highlights projects the users is working on by splitting the list in two parts : "My projects", "Other projects". On a large list, I assume users often switch between a few projects, so it wouldn't be necessary to scroll.