Description

Currently the admin section of redmine doesn't have any permanent navigation, context signals or exit routes.

How about making the top page list of options (projects, users, roles etc) a permanent sidebar menu?

The replacement first page could just be projects (the first menu item), or maybe a more interesting information page (ticket traffic, users etc).

Well, this could be an interesting enhancement for administrators. Maybe this could speed up the daily configuration work for bigger projects?

- Status changed from New to Closed

- Resolution set to Fixed

The Administration section has a sidebar containing links to the various sections since r3176.
