Description

when having multiple projects with multiple different trackers, and of course multiple different roles it can become a bit cumbersome to define the work flow, when creating new trackers/roles ideally it would be easier, if you can group the trackers going into the workflow?

and then apply the statuses to that group of trackers i know i could use the copy feature, but it is still too cumbersome that way and it would be easier to review if they were collapsed under a group, and the results would be more consistent
