Redmine - Defect #825
Remote Subversion repositories are not refreshed by the application

Description

All my subversion repositories are held online. I have to manually run "Repository.fetch_changesets" from the command line in order to see the latest commits. That's very bothersome.

I wonder if it should be configurable to include the "Repository.fetch_changesets" command everytime
I click on the repository tab, or offer a refresh button that does exactly that.

The remote Subversion servers are in version 1.3 and 1.4.

I was hoping that ticket #816 would fix it, but it did not. Now it's back to square one; no refresh of the remote subversion repositories.

Creating a new ticket doesn't help much.

Please, tell me what you get in the log after having added 2>&1 to the svn list command ?

We were added the '2&>1' to the cmd but it's still not working.
The log contains:

We are using filesystem SVN and Redmine 0.8.4.

We also checked the svn list --xml output, but it looks like valid XML...

It looks like we just had some ACL issues with the files. It's working now, sorry for bothering. (Although the error message could be more informative)

Thanks for the feedback.
