Description
I'd like to set up a role that restricts the user to tickets he's involved in as reporter or watcher.
That could be realized by one separate permission that restricts access to tickets where the user is involved (similar to the filter used in email settings - "only tickets I'm involved in")

That is already done, and should be realesed soon in 1.2.0 (11 days late)

see #7414

A new issue visibility level is available on roles:

All non private issues => user will see all non private issues and private issues that were created by him or are assigned to him
