Description

When a new user registers and an email is sent to that person. We receive the activation and most of us are using microsoft outlook 2003. We click on the link to activate our username and it opens a browser window and then you just get a white screen and no activation occurs.

If however you do it in internet explorer 6 the activation works.

I've just tested with IE7. Works fine.
Could you post the corresponding log (in debug mode if possible)
