Description

Hello, I saw something suspicious in Redmine trun 5857, concerning the custom fields.

The allowed format for custom fields for Issues, Spent time, Projects, Versions are Text, Long text, Integer, Float, List, Date, Boolean, User, Version.

The allowed format for custom fields for Users, Groups, Activities (time tracking), Issues priorities, Document categories are Text, Long text, Integer, Float, List, Date, Boolean

Is this by design or is an omission?

- Resolution set to Invalid

A User custom field displays a project members list and a Version custom field displays a project versions list. They are project specific and thus only available for things that belong to a project.
This is how it is designed for now.
