Description

I'm getting

```
rake generate_session_store
(in /tmp/redmine)
DEPRECATION WARNING: Rake tasks in vendor/plugins/engines/tasks and vendor/plugins/open_id_authent ication/tasks are deprecated. Use lib/tasks instead. (called from /tmp/redmine/vendor/rails/railti es/lib/tasks/rails.rb:10)

but the upgrade instructions neither warn me about it, nor tell me if I have to be concerned about it.

Did you upgrade Rails to 2.3.11?

#2 - 2011-06-09 10:24 - Etienne Massip

- Status changed from New to Closed

- Resolution set to Invalid

Indeed, it's a Rails "issue" with latest Rake, JPL already updated Redmine tasks to be compatible.

Wait a sec, my report is invalid? Why? Shouldn't the upgrade instructions mention this?

#4 - 2011-06-10 10:08 - Etienne Massip

This is just warning, the upgrade instructions can't mention every warning relative to the use of every version of every gem required by RM ?
