Description

1. your database version - MySQL 5.1.56
2. your Ruby version - 1.8.7 (i686-linux)
3. your Rails version - 2.3.11

Take a look at the output of the text below. Lines 1 and 2 should be separated by a newline.

Formatting test

```
Pre Block
```

Line 1   Line 2

1. sub 1
2. sub 2

Now, if I add a blank line between the closing pre tag and "Line 1" or between "Line 2" and the numbered list, things are ok.

Here it is again with the pre tag disabled:
Formatting test
< pre>
Pre Block
< /pre>
Line 1

Line 2

1. sub 1
2. sub 2

This actually does look right in some browsers, but I don't think the generated HTML is correct with regards to the paragraph tags. Here is another problematic structure:

1. Adding a table to a numbered bullet |_. HI|_. BYE| |0|1|
2. Second numbered bullet

```
Adding a table to a numbered bullet
|_. HI|_. BYE|
|0|1|
Second numbered bullet
```

Table works if there is a blank line after it, but then the numbered bullets restart.
