Description Hi JPL, can you commint CSS used on this site to trunk? I'm trying to setup the same CSS on our server as on this site, but without success, I'm doing something wrong... IMHO, this theme is the best! Can you commit it as Default or maybe as new theme under new name?

The redmine.org theme can not be used as-is because it requires a few more divs in base.rhtml. I can commit these changes if people are interested.

If I'm right, there are som emore DIVs for container-formating. Anyway it musn't be exactly the same theme, what I personally like on this Theme is smaller Verdana/bold in topmost menu and coloring of project's tabs. It's really excellent and visually best experience. (soory, I'm graphic designer, so I'm really fixed to visual aspects of projects ;)

Very happy to know that at least one graphic designer likes this design :-)

I agree with you. These 2 changes really improve the design and should be merged into the default theme:

- smaller Verdana/bold in topmost menu
- coloring of project's tabs

I will also add that i'm looking forward to getting this new theme into the trunk!

#6 - 2008-03-19 19:25 - Jean-Philippe Lang

- Target version set to 0.7

- % Done changed from 0 to 50

The top and main menus styles were changed in r1275 for the default themes.

Are you also interested in the shaded borders ?

Yes, please, I like them ;)))

Just came around this issue and wanted to point to a forum-topic regarding the same subject plus it provides a (currently out-dated) solution and the needed files: <http://www.redmine.org/boards/1/topics/show/625>.

Looking at the info and files in the referenced forum-topic; would it be possible to add the required layout-changes to the core to make it possible to add a new independent theme (e.g. ThemeRedmine, like done already for ThemeAlternate) of it?

The layout changes are committed in r3429.

Maybe r3429 should be merged in a future stable branch ?
