Description
I have Redmine 1.2.1 and I have problems when I try to add a related issue to a issue. When I do Redmine shows a dialog and asks for username and password, I write them and does not work, the workaround is put in the first login redmine form the option remember password activated. Another possibility ? Thanks

I am having a related issue in that trying to add a "related issue" caused the login dialog to pop and even it canceled logs the account out that was logged in. I am using today's svn and the ldap login for auth.

#3 - 2011-07-15 22:46 - Erik Ordway

It looks like it has something to do with one of these change sets based on the timing.

6184	2011-07-05 18:47	Jean-Philippe Lang	Makes relations resource shallow ( #7366 ).
6179	2011-07-04 19:44	Jean-Philippe Lang	Adds support for GET on /issues/:issue_id/relations ( #7366 ).
6176	2011-07-04 19:03	Jean-Philippe Lang	Adds REST API for issue relations ( #7366 ).

The 3 modifications listed by Erik solved your issue ??

#6 - 2011-07-18 15:21 - Luis Serrano Aranda

Bad news, this bug is not solved with this modifications

Yes these modifications are presumably at the origin of the bug, if ever.

#8 - 2011-07-18 15:41 - Luis Serrano Aranda

I had the error before it is modified

#9 - 2011-07-18 15:51 - Etienne Massip

Did you get the error just after you upgraded your version to 1.2.x ?

#10 - 2011-07-19 08:21 - Luis Serrano Aranda

Yes

#11 - 2011-07-19 10:15 - Etienne Massip

Then maybe you should check that your application.js is up-to-date by clearing your browser cache.

I have the same problem, but not in Redmine.

I installed an plugin, and when I open the page in the plugin, I found this error.

anyone knows why? How to fix it?

Thanks.
