Description Hi, There is a patch that allows per-project themes. Is it compatible with current Redmine (1.2.1)? Also why not this to be widened to support per-user themes? I think this patch could be incorporated in the core of Redmine.

I have this feature on a tool at work (Request Tracker) and it's a real pain that not everybody has the same interface. I think a large part of Redmine administrators would like to keep control on this type of things. Have you succesfully installed this plugin ? If so I propose we leave this in the plugin and close the request.

Oops sorry I closed the issue by error. So re-open if the plugin doesn't work and you have other pros for this feature.

It works in our Redmine 1.2.1. It seems that people doesn't like to change their habits. They continued to use the original theme. So let this feature stay as plugin.
