Description
The problem with this, is that the Activity section is the first page I go to see if anything has happened in my project. So someone with 'wiki delete' and 'file delete' permissions could go in, and delete pages and files. I would never know if they did this until I checked the wiki manually. What I would do is this: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. For files added to the wiki, I would add a link to the page in the Activity section2. For files deleted in the wiki, I would add a link to that wiki page in the Activity section3. For wiki pages deleted, I would just add text saying what page was deleted in the Activity section. We cant link to a page that no longer exists.

Also, Activity doesn't show updates on issues.
All updates seen only in email or Issues tracker:(

May be a feature request rather a defect, but yes: I agree with this addendum to Activity tab.

I agree :)
